PERIODICAL

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS INFORMATION BULLETIN

ISSN 0041-7904

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN
JUN 2 1977
LIBRARY SCIENCE LIBRARY

Vol. 36, No. 19 May 13, 1977

LINDBERGH BIBLIOGRAPHY ISSUED

In observance of the 50th anniversary of Charles Lindbergh's historic flight from New York to Paris, the LC Information Bulletin is publishing, in two installments, a selective bibliography on the famous aviator. Part I, covering Lindbergh's works, appears as an appendix to this issue on pp. 323-328. Part II will appear as an appendix to the LC Information Bulletin in next week's issue, May 20, the 50th anniversary to the day of Lindbergh's departure from New York.

NEW INTERNS SELECTED

The names of participants in the 1977-78 Library of Congress Intern Program were recently announced. Candidates for the program, which begins September 12, were recommended by their library school deans or their Library of Congress supervisors.

Selected from nominations by library school deans are Catherine LaTour, University of Washington; Thomas J. Martin, Columbia University; Kathryn J. Mendenhall, University of North Carolina; Paul Metz, University of Michigan; and Sarah M. Pritchard, University of Wisconsin.

Participants from the Library of Congress staff are Patrick Frazier and Judith Furash, both of the General Reference and Bibliography Division; Richard Greenfield, European Law Division; Anne Harley, Congressional Reference Divison; John Hass, Science and Technology Division; Thomas Lester, Cataloging Division; and William C. Putnam, Subject Cataloging Divison.

The program is designed to recruit outstanding library personnel and prepare them for a broad range of professional positions within the Library of Congress through 20 weeks of seminars, tours, and rotational work assignments.

SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA SUBJECT OF NEW BIBLIOGRAPHY SERIES

The Library has recently launched a new series—called the Maktaba Afrikana—of short bibliographies relating to sub-Saharan African. Each bibliography, devoted only to a single subject, is limited to no more than 500 entries, either annotated or not. Preferable topics are ones of current interest such as political organizations or the international relations of African states.

The Tanganyika Africa National Union is the subject of one of the new bibliographies published by the Library in the Maktaba Afrikana series. TANU was the political party of mainland Tanzania from independence until February 5 of this year when it merged with the Afro-Shirazi Party of Zanzibar to form the Chama cha Mapinduzi, or Revolutionary Party.

CONTENTS

Distinguished Brazilians Visit Library 315
Late News 322
LC/NLC Meeting Reported 314-315
Library of Congress Publications 321-322
Lindbergh Bibliography Issued 313
New Interns Selected 313
Staff News 315-321
Sub-Saharan Africa of New Bibliography Series 313-314
WHNPA Exhibit Catalog on Sale 321
Appendix–Charles A. Lindbergh: A Selective Bibliography 323-328

Tanganyika African National Union: A Guide to Publications by and about TANU was compiled by John B. Howell in the African Section of the Library's General Reference and Bibliography Division. The 52-page guide contains 234 entries of official party documents, and books, periodical articles, and dissertations on the party for the period between 1954 and 1974. It is arranged by subject, with major topics including the constitution of the party, economic policy, elections, foreign relations, history, mass communications, periodicals, organization, and the TANU Youth League.

The bibliography is based on holdings of the Library of Congress, Boston University African Studies Library, Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, Stanford University, Yale University Library, other American libraries reporting to the National Union Catalog and to New Serial Titles, and on the Library Bulletin and Accessions List of the Library of the University of Dar es Salaam, Tanzania. There is an index of authors (personal and corporate), place names, subjects, and titles.

Contemporary relations between Arab states and sub-Saharan Africa is the subject of the second bibliography in the series. Arab-African Relations, 1973-1975, compiled by Samir M. Zoghby formerly of the African Section, covers a period marked by numerous Arab diplomatic successes in Africa, especially during and immediately after the Arab-Israeli conflict of October 1973. More recently, the oil crisis and economic problems altered relations between black Africa and the Arab World.

The 23-page guide contains 150 partially annotated entries of books and periodical articles arranged by author. Many citations are taken from Arabic- and French-language sources. The bibliography is based on the holdings of the Library of Congress. There is a subject index.

Copies of both publications are available on request from the African Section, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20540.

LC/NLC MEETING REPORTED

Senior staff of the National Library of Canada and the Library of Congress met in Ottawa, Canada, on March 27-30 to plan extensive future cooperation between the two institutions in the areas of networking, technical processing, preservation, acquisitions, and reference services. Growing out of a meeting held last October between The Librarian of Congress, Daniel J. Boorstin, and National Librarian of Canada Guy Sylvestre, the meetings of top library staff are expected to be held annually.

At a general session on Monday, March 28, the staff of the two national libraries met with Mr. Sylvestre and Deputy Librarian of Congress William J. Welsh to discuss the larger topics of international cooperation, planning, and institutional change. The group then divided into three parties to review cooperative aspects of planning, technical processing and networking, and reference and resources.

Participants from the Library included, in addition to Mr. Welsh, Director of the Network Development Office Henriette Avram, Senior Computer Systems Analyst (MARC Development Office) Pamela Bacher, Loan Division Chief Jack McDonald, Assistant Director (Cataloging) of the Processing Department Lucia Rather, Preservation Microfilming Officer Lawrence Robinson, Serial Division Chief Donald Wisdom, and Planning Assistant to The Librarian Christopher Wright. Besides Mr. Sylvestre, NLC was also represented by Associate National Librarian L. F. MacRae and by H. Clement, C. Durance, F. Patterson, A. Preibish, J. Higginson, and other senior officers.

DISTINGUISHED BRAZILIANS VISIT THE LIBRARY

In connection with the eighth Inter-American Music Festival, the Library's participation in which was announced in the LC Information Bulletin of April 29 (p. 284), Mrs. Heitor Villa-Lobos and His Excellency the Ambassador of Brazil Joao Baptista Pinheiro (center) visited the Library on Monday, May 2, to view an exhibit mounted to mark the festival and the anniversary of the birth of her late husband, whose picture is on display in the exhibit case. Mrs. Villa-Lobos presented Don Leavitt, acting chief of the Music Division, with several recordings of her husband's work and a collection of the stamps issued in Brazil to commemorate the anniversary.

Proposals discussed by the various groups included cooperating in newspaper microfilming projects, surveying the effect on the national libraries of interlibrary loan charges made by universities in both countries, cooperating in the control of microform collections, and including the National Library of Canada in U.S. plans for computer-to-computer library networking. They also discussed expanding Dewey Decimal schedules for Canadian history, print-Canadian MARC records directly from Canadian tapes at the Library of Congress, exchanging staff on an extended basis for greater cooperation in subject cataloging and classification, making available to the Library of Congress the MARC format developed by Canada for cataloging newspapers, and exchanging results of research in networking and automation.

The meetings, which were conducted on an informal and free-flowing basis, allowed staff of both libraries to discuss mutual problems and aspirations at the working level. In a subsequent discussion, Mr. Sylvestre told the Library of Congress staff, "It is our unanimous opinion that this new venture will contribute significantly to expanding and improving the communication between our two institutions generally as well as between their respective staff in their particular areas of responsibility."

The next meeting is scheduled to be held in Washington, D.C., next spring. In the meantime, staff of the two libraries will be developing the projects discussed in Ottawa and laying plans for further discussions.

Bob Cirace (left), president of the White House News Photographers Association (WHNPA), chats with Librarian of Congress Daniel J. Boorstin (center) at the opening on Saturday evening, April 30, of the association's 34th Annual Exhibit. Looking on are Bernie Boston, immediate past president of WHNPA, and Mrs. Boston. The exhibit will remain on view through July 17 in the Lower Level Gallery, Library of Congress Building

STAFF NEWS

RETIREMENT

Star editor, writer, artist, and wit Sarah L. Wallace was honored by hundreds of colleagues and friends on Thursday, April 28. A woman whose high standards of excellence have won her the respect of her colleagues and recognition from both publishers and academicians, Miss Wallace retired on May 4 after serving as the Library's publications officer since 1963.

Numerous publications edited by Miss Wallace and her staff over the years have won awards. Papermaking: Art and Craft, published in 1968, was designated one of the Fifty Books of the Year by the American Institute of Graphic Arts, was a winner in the 1969 Graphic Arts Awards Competition sponsored by the Printing Industry of America, took first prize in the category of books over 50 pages in the annual Government publications contests sponsored by the Federal Editors Association, and was chosen Best of Show in the same contest. Other first-place winners in the Federal Editors Association competition have included the Quarterly Journal of the Library of Congress in 1967, 1969, 1971, 1972, and 1975, Alabama in 1979, Contemporary Photographs from Sweden in 1971, and The Development of a Revolutionary Mentality in 1972. In 1975 the Publications Competition Committee of the Society of Technical Communications presented its Award of Distinction to Treasures from the Lessing J. Rosenwald Collection. That same year the Federal Design Council presented Awards of Excellence to Americana in Children's Books and To Set a Country Free.

Miss Wallace and Mr. Parton (right) share a moment with CRS Director Gilbert Gude.

Miss Wallace was the recipient of the John Cotton Dana Publicity Award while she was on the staff of the Minneapolis Public Library and in 1969 the recipient of the Horace Hart Award, presented annually to a Government employee for distinguished public service in the field of printing and publishing. She was the first woman to receive the latter award. In 1972 Miss Wallace was recognized by her alma mater, the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, Minn., which bestowed on her the Alexandrine medal, awarded to women who have distinguished themselves in their professions through outstanding services to society.

The author of So You Want to Be a Librarian, published by Harper and Row in 1963, Miss Wallace wrote or edited several books for the American Library Association (illustrating two of them), several short stories and magazine articles, and numerous articles in professional journals. ALA also borrowed her from the Minneapolis, Minn., Public Library in 1960 to handle public relations for the Montreal Conference.

In addition to her undergraduate degree, she also holds a degree in library science from the Library School of the College of St. Catherine. She began her library career as an assistant in the Reference Department of the Minneapolis Public Library in 1936, became publicity assistant in 1942, administrative assistant in 1945, and administrative assistant in charge of public relations and research in 1954. In 1958, her title was changed to public relations officer, the job she held until coming to the Library of Congess.

As the Library's publications officer, Miss Wallace coordinated the Library's publishing program in which a variety of bibliographies, guides, and other reference tools are published. She served as editor of the Library's Quarterly Journal, planned and edited The Librarian's Annual Report, prepared brochures for the Library's use, and directed the production of facsimiles of important items in the collections. She served as the Library's liaison with the U.S. Government Printing Office. Under her direction, the number of pages edited by her office grew from 3,012 in fiscal year 1970 to nearly 17,000 in the last fiscal year. Her staff of three when she came to the Library had grown to 14 as of last year.

At the retirement party were Miss Wallace was characterized as one who had "left her imprint on the Library," several hundred of her friends and former and present colleagues gathered in the Whittall Pavilion on Thursday afternoon, April 28, to pay tribute to her successful Library career and to wish her well.

Dressed in a suit of butter-colored suede and wearing a corsage of yellow roses, a smiling Miss Wallace looked like the fashion plate she always denies she is.

Assistant Library of Congress for Public Education

James Parton welcomed those present by recalling Miss Wallace's distinguished career at the Library and by reading a letter of appreciation from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey recalling a Minneapolis connection of many years' standing.

On behalf of the Library, Assistant Librarian for American and Library Studies Elizabeth H. Kegan presented Miss Wallace a woodblock print of the Washington Monument as seen through a cherry bough by Japanese-American artist Un'ichi Hiratsuka, whose print of the Library Miss Wallace had selected to illustrate the 1966 Annual Report. The print and another gift, a blue-leather-bound guest register made for the reception, were guaranteed to meet all standards of permanent-durable and acid-free.

Deputy Librarian William J. Welsh, on behalf of The Librarian, presented Miss Wallace the Distinguished Service Award, the Library's highest honorary award for service. His commendation of her service read, "While supervising a staff that grew nearly five-fold during your tenure, you have introduced a great improvement in the scholarly and graphic quality of the Library's publications. A number have evidenced real elegance in design and have won outside awards, thus shedding increased attention upon the Library's publications."

Mr. Welsh and a smiling Miss Wallace share a reminiscence about how she got to LC.

Following Mr. Parton's presentation of her retirement certificate, Miss Wallace took the opportunity to thank those in attendance for their support and friendship over the years. With typical grace and eloquence, she remarked that her years as publications officer had been ones devoted as well to acquisitions—acquiring true friends, some rare, some in fine bindings, of different types, and containing all kinds of knowledge. She invited her friends to visit her in her new home in New Mexico.

Miss Wallace unties the gift Mrs. Kegan presented her on behalf of the Library staff.

AWARDS

Dorothy "Penny" Keziah was presented a 25-year Federal Service Award pin by Register of Copyrights Barbara Ringer on April 4. Attending the presentation were members of the Register's weekly conference. Except for the past three months, all of Mrs. Keziah's Federal service has been in the Music Section of the Examining Division.

A native of Indiana, Pa., Mrs. Keziah was graduated from the Eastman School of the University of Rochester in 1941 with a bachelor of music degree in piano and theory. She received a master of music degree in theory from the Eastman School in 1946. Upon graduation she took the position of instructor of piano at the Marlborough School for Girls in Los Angeles. In 1948, she became associate professor of music at Elon College in North Carolina, a position she held for three years.

Mrs. Keziah came to the Library in 1952 as an examiner in the Music Section of the Examining Division. She was promoted to the position of reviser in 1957 and in 1962 to the position of assistant head. In 1965, she became head of the Music Section, a position she held for 12 years. On January 31, she transferred to the Copyright Planning and Technical Office as a program analyst. As a member of the Register's Copyright Revision Coordinating Committee, she is currently working on plans to implement operation of the new Copyright Act of 1976.

Mrs. Keziah is the author of two articles in the Bulletin of the Copyright Society of the U.S.A., and has spoken at various seminars on copyright.

Mrs. Keziah is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, the American Association of University Women, and the Library of Congress Professional Association. This past year she was appointed Copyright Office representative on the Library of Congress Intern Committee.

Frank Young, general equipment operator, Buildings Services Section, was presented a 20-year Federal Service Award pin on April 20 by John J. Laffey, assistant chief of the Buildings Management Office.

A native of Surry County, Va., Mr. Young worked as a laborer general until July 1964 when he was promoted to his present position.

PERSONNEL CHANGES

Glasgow, Harrison Appointed

Richard E. Glasgow was appointed Assistant general counsel of the Copyright Office, effective February 16. Formerly chief of the Examining Division, he continued as acting chief of that division until the appointment of Anthony P. Harrison on March 14.

Mr. Glasgow graduated from Bradley University in Peoria, Ill., in 1948 with an A.B. degree in history and political science. He received his LL.B. degree from George Washington University Law School in 1951. He has been a member of the Bar of the Commonwealth of Virginia since 1952.

Mr. Glasgow came to the Copyright Office as a legal examiner in January 1953 and progressed rapidly through the Examining Divison, becoming a reviser and serving as assistant head of the Miscellaneous (now Arts) Section in 1956. He received an Outstanding Effjciency Rating in 1959 and in 1960 was named head of the Miscellaneous Section. He was promoted to assistant chief of the Examining Division in 1963 and became chief in 1966.

Mr. Harrison, the new Examining Division chief, had previously been a program analyst in the Planning and Technical Office of the Copyright Office.

He joined the staff of the Copyright Office as an examiner in the Book Section of the Examining Division in October 1963 and was named assistant head of that section in August 1970 after service as a senior examiner in several sections of the Examining Division. He was named acting head of the Book Section in October 1974 and head in March 1975.

In November 1975, he was transferred to the Planning and Technical Office to apply his combination of administrative experience and knowledge of copyright law to special problems concerned with planning for implementation of the then anticipated new copyright law. In this position he completed studies that are now the basis for implementing certain provisions of the new law, one of which allows the copyright owner to grant the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped permission to reproduce tactile copies and sound recordings of his works.

Mr. Harrison served in 1976 as a member of the Subcommittee on Service to Congress of the Librarian's Task Force on Goals, Organization, and Planning which was one of the subcommittees set up by the Library of Congress in its reorganization studies.

He earned his B.A. degree in 1959 and LL.B. degree in 1963 at Howard University. He is a member of the District of Columbia Bar, the Bar Association of the District of Columbia, and the National Bar Association.

Appointments: Lauren Beatty, information counter attendant, GS-3, Inf, OP 1-700; Adrienne Brown, microphotographer trainee, GT-3, Photodup, OP 5-100; Paula Pettavino, research analyst, GS-7, FRD, 4348; Michael Sapsara, research analyst, GS-7, FRD, 4348; Eugene Schou, position classification and organization specialist, GS-12, Pers Class, 4413; Donald Shomette, visual information specialist, GS-12, CS, 4380.

Temporary Appointment: Charles Edwards, private, SP-7, Bldgs, 4307.

Reappointment: George Cerny, senior language specialist, GS-11, Sci, 4324.

Promotions: Doris Berry, to secretary (typing), GS-6, CS, 4405; Anthony Bowie, S&R, to master files assistant, GS-3, CRS L, 4450; J. Sharon Butler, Cop Exam, to attorney, GS-13, Cop Reg, 4374; Yvette Byrd, MARC Dev, to secretary (typing), GS-7, MARC Ed, 4407; James Coburn, to editorial and technical support assistant, GS-7, Cop Cat, 4525; Elizabeth Gelderloos, Inf, to gift exchange accessioner, GS-5, E&G, 4401; Nancy Hering, to descriptive cataloger, GS-9, Desc Cat, 4486; Betty Thompson, Ord, to cataloger, GS-7, Cop Cat, 4472; Margaret Wayne, Desc Cat, to MARC monograph verifier, GS-7, MARC Ed, 4288.

Transfers: Victor Andreeff, Desc Cat, to MARC monograph verifier, GS-7, MARC Ed, 4299; Catherine Armstrong, Cop Exam, to attorney, GS-12, Cop Reg, 4375; Asra Mamoer, Desc Cat, to MARC monograph verifier, GS-7, MARC Ed, 4295; Alexander Mathews, CRS L, to staffing clerk (typing), GS-5, Per Place, 4435; Charles Noble, Cat Publ, to MARC monograph verifier, GS-7, MARC Ed, 4297; Edward J. Santora, Jr., Cop Exam, to attorney, GS-12, Cop Reg, 4374.

Resignations: Kevin Brooks, Loan; Lorraine Brown, S&R; Anne Hudock, CRS L; Gail Lewis, Desc Cat; Dennis McHugh, FMO; Sandra McQuarrie, CRS D; Diana Ramsey, GR&B; Dolly Sanford, CDS; Robin Sherwood, LL FE; Alverette Spillman, CRS A; Hamilton Webb, Health; Martin Wooster, Ord; Steven Yang, S&R.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Henriette D. Avram addressed the D.C. Chapter of the Special Libraries Association at their meeting on April 27. Mrs. Avram's presentation began with a review of the Library's planned and operational national bibliographic services and how these services are basic to the Library's networking activities. Mrs. Avram then briefed the association on the efforts underway in several areas: the Network Advisory Group, the Network Technical Architecture Group, the NCLIS/NBS (National Commission on Libraries and Information Science/National Bureau of Standards) Task Force on Computer Network Protocol, and the Phase 1 study on the role of authority files in national library networking. This latter study is being funded by NCLIS.

Elemer Bako, Finno-Ugrian area specialist in the Slavic and Central European Division, was one of the lecturers at a panel program on Finno-Ugrian languages presented at the monthly meeting of the Society of Federal Linguists, of which Mr. Bako is the president. The meeting was held on Saturday, April 16, at the West End Public Library, Washington, D.C. Mr. Bako spoke on "The Holdings and Activities of the Library of Congress in the Area of Finno-Ugrian Languages." The society vice president, Everette E. Larson, area librarian in the Latin American, Portuguese and Spanish Division, was chairman of the meeting.

The Librarian of Congress Daniel J. Boorstin received an honorary doctor of laws degree from The Catholic University of America on May 7. The degree citation noted "the intellectual independence that he wears as a badge of honor has been revealed in his research and in his original interpretations of the history of the American people."

Ranjan Borra of the Southern Asia Section, Orientalia Division, is the performing artist in a recent release of a His Master's Voice recording by the Gramophone Co. of India in Calcutta. This 45-rpm recording contains two Hindi geets (love songs) written by the famous Hindi lyricist Uday Khanna on one side, and on the other side two bhajans (devotional songs) written by the well-known saint-poets of India, Tulsidas and Meerabai. The recording was made under the musical direction of Indian musician and composer, Pankaj Kumar Mullick.

Frank Kurt Cylke, chief, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, has been appointed by the Blinded Veterans Association (BVA) as one of three judges for the 1977 Melvin J. Maas Achievement Award. The Blinded Veterans Association annually presents its award to the blind veteran whose disability is service-related and who has proven himself outstanding in his field of employment and in his adjustment to daily living. The award is named in honor of the well-known marine general who was an early president of the Blinded Veterans Association and was chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped at the time of his death. The winner will be announced at the BVA's 32nd Annual Convention in Washington, D.C., on July 30.

Georgette M. Dorn, head of the Reference Section in the Latin American, Portuguese and Spanish Division, and specialist in Hispanic culture, lectured on "Five Women Poets of Latin America: Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz, Delmira Agustini, Juana de Ibarbourou, Alfonsina Storni, and Gabriela Mistral" at Georgetown University on March 22. She presented a program on April 28 on "The Archive of Hispanic Literature on Tape" which she illustrated by playing cassette recordings of poems by Andrés Eloy Blanco, Ernesto Cardenal, Jorge Luis Borges, Octavio Paz, and Pablo Neruda, at the Club de las Américas, a 35-year-old organization devoted to Spanish and Latin American civilization and culture.

Virginia Haviland, head of the Children's Book Section, General Reference and Bibliography Division, lectured on current trends in children's books and reading at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C., on April 22 at a conference on The Image of

The South in Children's Literature. On April 23, at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., she spoke on international-intercultural aspects of the children's book world at its Intercultural-Language Arts Festival.

Paul T. Heffron, assistant chief, Manuscript Division, spoke at the Jefferson Memorial on April 13, in observance of the 234th birthday of Thomas Jefferson. The ceremony, held annually, is sponsored by the Sons of the American Revolution and the National Capital Parks.

Joseph C. Hickerson, head of the Archive of Folk Song, has contributed a chapter to a book published earlier this year called Music in American Society 1776-1976: From Puritan Hymn to Synthesizer (Transaction Books, New Brunswick, N.J.). Entitled "American Folksong: Some Comments on the History of Its Collection and Archiving," the chapter deals particularly with the history and work of the Archive of Folk Song, and was derived from lectures delivered in June of last year in St. Louis as part of the Bicentennial Horizons of American Music and the Performing Arts (BHAM) celebration.

Marvin W. McFarland, chief of the Science and Technology Division, was the principal speaker at a dinner at Girard College, Philadelphia, Pa., on Friday, April 22, given by the college in appreciation of contributions of the Copernicus Society of America to the success of the Bicentennial program, Americana Jubilee, in the Philadelphia Bourse Building, which is displaying, through 1977, many items of the household furniture, china, plate, and paintings of Stephen Girard (1750-1831). Edward Pizek, president of the society and founder and president of Mrs. Paul's Foods, was present and spoke briefly. Mr. McFarland's remarks, "Stephen Girard: A Very Human Human Being," were printed and distributed as an 18-page brochure. At another dinner on Monday night, April 25, Mr. McFarland spoke before the Science and Arts Club, Mt. Airy, on the topic: "Citizen Stephen Girard, His Ideas and Beliefs." The evening's host was Donald C. Rubel, a member of the club and president of the Board of Directors of City Trusts which was oversight of Girard College.

Vittorfranco S. Pisano, a legal specialist in the European Law Division, Law Library, gave a lecture on "Comparative Systems of Law" on April 14 to the 152nd Mobilization Designation Detachment at the Army Operations Center of the Pentagon. He also delivered a lecture on April 18 on "The Italian Communist Party Platform for the 1976 National Elections" to the Grand Lodge of Maryland of the Order of the Sons of Italy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Library of Congress Professional Association will hold its sixth annual book sale on Thursday, May 26, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Deck 47 in the Library of Congress Building. All Library employees are invited to contribute books, records, and magazines and to attend the sale. LCPA members will be stationed inside the Ground Floor, West Entrance, of the Library of Congress Building between 7:45 and 8:30 a.m. to collect books from May 19 to May 25. Collection for the Thomas Jefferson Building will take place during the same times and days inside the Second Street entrance to that building. Persons in the outlying divisions may take their contributions to the following people: Copyright Office, John Wayne (Room 200) or Daniel Pernell (Room 317); Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Lucy Veceva; Geography and Map Division, Jim Flatness; Navy Yard Annex, Vernie Warren (Room 104, Customer Services); and Massachusetts Avenue Annex, Tony Nicastro (Book Subjects Unit, 2nd floor). Interested persons should contact Lee Decker on ext. 6424 about exceptions to the regular collection times. On the day of the sale, Library of Congress employee passes will be required for admittance until 1 p.m., when the sale will be opened to the public. Prices will generally be under one dollar with exceptions marked. All prices will be reduced after 3:30 p.m. As supplies last, fresh stock will be put out throughout the day, so it will not necessarily be advantageous to arrive early.

Eligibility requirements for beginning typing and shorthand courses offered by the Training Office to Library of Congress employees have been revised as follows. For beginning typing, full-time qualified employees in grades GS-4 and below are eligible for nomination. Full-time qualified employees in grades GS-5 to GS-8, whose mobility may be enhanced by the ability to take shorthand, will be considered on a space available basis. For beginning shorthand, the same requirements apply. Justification for training must be stated on Civil Service Commission Optional Form 170. A qualified employee who cannot be spared from his or her duties may apply for the Tuition Support Program to take these courses outside the Library.

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit will visit the Library on Wednesday, May 25 from 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. in the Whittall Pavilion. Donors from the Navy Yard Annex, Taylor St. Annex, and Massachusetts Ave. Annex, are requested to use the regular shuttle bus service to the Main Building. Staff members wishing to donate blood should register with keyworkers in their respective divisions. In accordance with LCR 2015-17.4, all blood donors may be granted a maximum of four hours excused absence, which includes the actual time spent giving blood and a rest and recuperative period immediately following. The time of donation must be approved by the supervisor and a Form 13-73a (Blood Donation Verification) must be submitted to the supervisor following donation. Arrangements for blood replacement for Library personnel and members of their families may be made by calling Shirley Thompson, Health Services Office, ext. 6053.

WHNPA EXHIBIT CATALOG ON SALE

The exhibit catalog for the 34th Annual Exhibition of the White House News Photographers, on view in the Lower Level Gallery, Ground Floor, Library of Congress Building, through July 17, is on sale for $2.50 in person only at the Information Counter, located in the Ground Floor Lobby. The catalog reproduces the prizewinners in the show and includes articles on the association's annual show and other events of 1976.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS PUBLICATIONS

Accessions List: Brazil. ISSN 0095-795X. Vol. 3, No. 2. February, 1977. Continuing subscriptions free to libraries upon request to the field director, Library of Congress Office, American Consulate General, APO New York 09676.

Library of Congress Name Headings with References. ISSN 0093-0563. 1975. (1977) Vol. 1: A-K (984 p.) For sale by the Cataloging Distribution Service, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20541 for $50 for three quarterly issues and an annual cumulation.

Monographic Series. ISSN 0093-0571. 1975. (1976) Vol. 4, Rijo-Zys. (925 p.) For sale by the Cataloging Distribution Service for $150 for three quarterly issues and an annual cumulation.

New Serial Titles: A Union List of Serials Commencing Publication After December 31, 1949. ISSN 0028-6680. January-March 1977. (xiii, 150 p.) April 1977. (iv, 40 p.) For sale by the Cataloging Distribution Service, at $190 for the year's subscription which consists of eight monthly and four quarterly issues, and an annual volume which cumulates one to five years.

New Serial Titles–Classed Subject Arrangement. ISSN 0028-6699. April 1977. (40 p.) Prepared under the sponsorship of the Joint Committee on the Union List of Serials and published monthly by the Library of Congress. For sale by the Cataloging Distribution Service for $40 a year.

Subject Catalog. ISSN 0096-8803. 1975. (1976) Vol. 9, Integrated-Kordofan. (1020 p.) Vol. 10, Korea-Maldonado. (1023 p.) Vol. 11, Male-Mungo. (1005 p.) Vol. 12, Mungsen-Paratroops. (1026 p.) Vol. 13, Parc-Prometejs. (1018 p.) Vol. 14, Prometheus-Russia in (992 p.) For sale by the Cataloging Distribution Service for $850.

New Microform Publications: A Survey of Soviet Aims, Policies, and Tactics (one reel, $20); The French Forces of the Interior: Their Organization and Participation in the Liberation of France, 1944 (two reels, $40); U.S.S.R. CIA Reference and Research Material (various titles on microfiche, prices on request); International and Transnational Terrorism: Diagnosis and Prognosis (positive print copy, $7); Profile of Violence: An Analytical Model (positive print copy, $10); Annotated Bibliography on Transnational and International Terrorism (positive print copy, $35) (microfilm, $12). For shipment to other than North American addresses, an additional 60 cents per reel should be added for surface postage. Orders and inquiries should be directed to the Library of Congress, Photoduplication Service, Washington, D.C. 20540.

Library of Congress Regulations: No. 218-14 and No. 2022-4 (April 6) concerning staff assemblies were cancelled; No. 2017-3 (April 28) revised the Library's policies regarding its Suggestion and Incentive Awards Program to include awards for staff members working actively and effectively toward the goal of equal employment opportunity, awards be included as a consideration for promotion, and recognition to be given supervisors for motivating employee participation in this program as well as for their own accomplishments.

Special Announcements: No. 822 (March 31) announced the promotion of Waldo H. Moore to Assistant Register of Copyrights for Registration; No. 823 (April 6) announced the appointment of Thomas William Novotny as deputy director of the Congressional Research Service; No. 824 (April 7) concerned the Library's Affirmative Action Plan for Fiscal 1978; No. 825 (April 15) invited the staff to attend a Bluegrass music concert on April 25; No. 826 (April 18) urged staff members to attend a cancer education program on April 26 or 27; No. 827 (April 21) named Mary E. Sauer as chief of the Serial Record Division, Processing Department; No. 828 (April 26) called attention to the establishment of the Network Advisory Committee.

Press Releases: No. 77-35 (April 8) Thomas Novotny Named Deputy Director, Library of Congress Congressional Research Service; No. 77-36 (April 8) Library of Congress to Hold Outdoor Concert; No. 77-37 (April 12) Radcliffe Squires and Chad Walsh to Read from their Poems at the Library of Congress; No. 77-38 (April 12) Library of Congress Exhibits Diverse Collection of Recent Acquisitions in Rare Book and Special Collections Division; No. 77-39 (April 13) Project to Study Chicago Ethnic and Folk Cultural Traditions; No. 77-40 (April 19) Robert Hayden Reappointed to Library Poetry Consultantship–Will Conclude 1976-77 Literary Season with Lecture on May 3; No. 77-41 (April 19) Library of Congress Acquires Speech-Braille Machine; No. 77-42 (April 21) Mary E. Sauer Named Chief of Serial Record Division at Library of Congress; No. 77-43 (April 22) 13th Annual Guide to Current Children's Books Published by the Library of Congress; No. 77-44 (April 27) People's Republic of China Subject of Two New Library of Congress Exhibits; No. 77-45 (April 27) White House News Photographers Association Photo Exhibition to Open at LC on May 1; No. 77-46 (April 29) Brazilian Visitors to Open Library of Congress Villa-Lobos Exhibit–Monday First Day of Inter-American Music Festival; No. 77-47 (April 29) The Early Illustrated Book is Topic of Second Engelhard Lecture at Library of Congress May 20.

LATE NEWS

Word was just received of the death on Monday morning, May 9, of Harold Spivacke, former chief of the Library's Music Divison and honorary consultant in musicology. Mr. Spivacke retired from that position in 1972 following 38 years of distinguished service with the Library. A full account of his career will appear in next week's LC Information Bulletin.

APPENDIX

CHARLES A. LINDBERGH

A Selective Bibliography Commemorating the Golden Anniversary of Lindbergh's Solo Flight to Paris, May 20-21, 1927

Compiled by Arthur G. Renstrom
Former Head, Aeronautics Section
Science and Technology Division

The present bibliography is presented as one of a number of tributes by the Library of Congress to mark the 50th anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's epic flight from New York to Paris, May 20, 21, 1927. Materials in the Library's collections relating to Lindbergh are extensive, consisting of books, manuscripts, maps and charts, motion pictures and film strips, music, and photographs. It is possible here to list only a limited number of such materials by and about him. Arrangements of the works by Lindbergh, spanning almost half a century, 1925-1972, is chronological since this arrangement seems best suited to document his varied career, which covered such diverse fields as aviation and rocketry, medical technology, anthropology, exploration, service as research and technical consultant, and—in the later years of his life—ecology and environmentalism with an intense interest in the preservation and protection of wildlife and natural resources. The remaining items selected for inclusion are grouped into three categories: biographical materials (books and articles), memorabilia, and motion pictures and film strips.

Besides giving the Library many of his own materials, which came to it largely as a matter of course, Lindbergh served as its Consultant in Aeronautics from 1954 to 1974, almost twenty years, and was instrumental in bringing into its treasures a number of important manuscript collections. He was devoted to the Library all his life, a fact which he made manifest in many ways, including his verbal endorsement, positively though modestly expressed.

PART I

HIS WORKS

[Official report on parachute jump at Kelly Field, near San Antonio, March 6, 1925] Air Service news letter, v. 9, Apr. 2, 1925: 6-7 UG633.A65

The report is the first published writing by Lindbergh. The midair collision of Cadet Lindbergh and Lieut. C. C. McAllister resulted in Lindbergh's twelfth parachute jump. This emergency jump qualified him as a member of the Caterpillar Club, an organization of those who had to jump from aircraft to save their lives.

Going over the side three times with a parachute; Captain Lindbergh tells a thrilling story. U.S. air services, v. 12, Feb. 1927: 42-43. TL501.U59

Includes Lindbergh's official report for his third jump on September 15, 1926, which occurred near Chicago while he was serving as an air mail pilot.

Lindbergh's own story of epochal flight; tempted to turn back, keeps on in storm; asks fishing boat: 'Am I on the road to Ireland?' New York times, May 23, 1927, p. 1, cols. 5-8, p. 2, cols. 1-4.

The first installment of a series of articles continued May 24, 28, 29, 31, and June 1, 2, 3, 5, 9, 10, 11.

Before his flight Lindbergh signed a contract giving the New York Times exclusive rights to his story, with the Times providing a ghost writer to prepare a first draft for him.

My flight to Paris. Aero digest, v. 10, June 1927: 514-524. TL501.A292

Originally published in New York Times.

Lindbergh's own story; the history of the Atlantic flight as told by himself. Current history, v. 26, July 1927: 513-522. D410.C8

Originally published in New York Times.

And then I jumped. Saturday evening post, v. 200, July 23, 1927: 6-7. AP2.S2

An account of four parachute jumps by Lindbergh carried out March 6 and June 2, 1925, and September 15 and November 3, 1926.

Lindbergh jumps head first. Review of reviews, v. 76, Aug. 1927: 202-204. AP2.R4

Reprinted from U.S. Official Postal Guide, Monthly Supplement, June 1927. Published also in Popular Aviation, v. 22, May 1938; p. 25-26, 78, with title "Mailman Overboard! Being the Report of an Emergency Parachute Jump by Charles A. Lindbergh."

Report of a jump November 3, 1926 over Covell, Illinois, while serving as an air mail pilot for Robertson Aircraft Corporation between St. Louis and Chicago.

"We," by Charles A. Lindbergh; the famous flier's own story of his life and transatlantic flight, together with his views on the future of aviation, with a foreword by Myron T. Herrick. New York, London, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1927. 318 p. front., plates, ports. TL540.L5A3 1927

Includes "A Little of What the World Thought of Lindbergh," by Fitzhugh Green, p. 233-318.

Written in three weeks at the Long Island estate of Harry F. Guggenheim and published on July 27, the book "We" was subsequently published in numerous impressions, 1927-1928.

Many translations were soon published, including French (Paris, E. Flammarion, 1927), German (Leipzig, F. A. Brockhaus, 1927), Italian (Milano, A. Mondadori, 1928), Japanese (1929), and Spanish (Barcelona, Editorial Mentora, S.A., 1927).

Making of an air mail pilot; the unforgettable thrills of the first solo flight. World's work, v. 54, Sept. 1927: 472-481. AP2.W8

To Bogotá and back by air. National geographic magazine, v. 53, May 1928: 529-601. G1.N27

Account of Latin American good-will tour in "Spirit of St. Louis" visiting 17 countries and covering 9,500 miles.

Address [on need for study and teaching of aeronautics in schools] In National Education Association of the United States. Addresses and proceedings, 1928, p. 808-809. L13.N4

Aeroplanes of the future. Collins' aircraft annual, 1930: 43-46. TL547.A1C6

Air transport. Saturday evening post, v. 202, Feb. 1, 1930: 7, 50. AP2.S2

Cites advantages and safety of commercial air travel.

Method for washing corpuscles in suspension. Science, v. 75, Apr. 15, 1932: 415-416. Q1.S35

An apparatus for washing red blood corpuscles which was developed in connection with experiments with the perfusion pump which Lindbergh had been at work on since 1930 at the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research in New York.

Lindbergh, Anne M. Flying around the Atlantic; with a foreword by Charles A. Lindbergh. National geographic magazine, v. 66, Sept. 1934: 259-337. G1.N27

A survey trip between July 9 and December 19, 1933 covering more than 29,000 miles.

Meier, F. C. Collecting micro-organisms from the Arctic atmosphere, Scientific monthly, v. 40, Jan. 1935: 5-20. Q1.S817

Includes field notes and materials by Lindbergh. Using a "sky hook" Lindbergh made the first successful spore and bacteria survey of the North Atlantic regions on the Lindberghs' North Atlantic survey flight in 1933.

Lindbergh, Anne M. North to the Orient; with maps by Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Harcourt, Brace and Company [1935] 255 p. front., illus. (maps) TL540.L49A3

The story of the flight made by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh in 1931, from Washington, D.C. to Japan and China.

Carrel, Alexis, and Charles A. Lindbergh. The culture of whole organs. Science, v. 81, June 21, 1935: 621-623. Q1.S35

Lindbergh had collaborated with the French-born Nobel Prize Laureate at the Department of Experimental Surgery of Rockefeller Medical Research Institute in New York since meeting him November 30, 1930.

An apparatus for the culture of whole organs. Journal of experimental medicine, v. 62, Sept. 1935: 409-431. R11.J68

Aviation and war. Vital speeches of the day, v. 2, Aug. 1, 1936: 696. PN6121.V32
Speech delivered at a luncheon in Lindbergh's honor in Berlin, July 23, 1936, stressing change in warfare caused by developing aviation.

Carrel, Alexis, and Charles A. Lindbergh. The culture of organs; with 111 illustrations. New York, P. B. Hoeber, Inc., 1938. xix, 221 p. illus., diagr. QP88.C35

Lindbergh, Anne M. Listen! the wind. With foreword and map drawings by Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Harcourt, Brace and Company [1938] xii, 275 p. illus. (maps) pl. TL540.L49A27
The story of the flight made by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh in 1933, across the Atlantic Ocean from Africa to Brazil.

Air Corps expansion program; statement May 17, [1939] of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, In U.S. House. Committee on Appropriations. Hearings before the subcommittee . . . on the supplemental military appropriation bill for 1940. Washington, U.S. Govt. print. off., 1939. p. 288-290. UA24.A7 1940d

Appeal for isolation; let us look to our own defense. Vital speeches of the day, v. 5, Oct. 1, 1939: 751-752. PN6121.V32
Same in Congressional Digest, v. 18, Oct. 1939: 250-251.
Radio address broadcast September 15, 1939, the first of numerous articles, radio addresses, and speeches continuing until America's entrance into World War II in which Lindbergh appeals for nonintervention in the war.
Copies of the final drafts and earlier rough drafts of all Lindbergh's speeches and articles are in the Charles A. Lindbergh Papers in the Yale University Library, New Haven, Connecticut, and selected speeches are in the Charles A. Lindbergh Papers, Manuscript Division, Library of Congress.

Aviation, geography, and race. Reader's digest, v. 35, Nov. 1939: 64-67. AP2.R255
A plea for peace among western nations.

What our decision should be. Vital speeches of the day, v. 6, Nov. 1, 1939: 57-59. PN6121.V32
Radio address broadcast October 13, 1939.

What substitute for war? Atlantic monthly, v. 165, Mar. 1940: 305-308. AP2.A8
Abridged in Reader's Digest, v. 36, May 1940: 43-47.

Our national safety. Vital speeches of the day, v. 6, June 1, 1940: 484-485. PN6121.V32
Radio address broadcast May 19, 1940.

Our drift toward war. Vital speeches of the day, v. 6, July 1, 1940: 549-551. PN6121.V32
Radio address broadcast June 15, 1940.

Appeal for peace. Vital speeches of the day, v. 6, Aug. 15, 1940: 644-646. PN6121.V32
Speech delivered at the Keep-America-out-of-War Rally, Chicago, August 4, 1940.

Strength and peace. Vital speeches of the day, v. 7, Nov. 1, 1940: 42-43. PN6121.V32
Radio address broadcast from Washington, October 13, 1940.

Plea for American independence, Scribner's commentator, v. 9, Dec. 1940: 69-73. AP2.S39
Radio address delivered October 14, 1939.

The radio addresses of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, 1939-40. New York, Scribner's Commentator, c1940. 18 p. D753.L52
Speeches originally published in Vital Speeches of the Day, vols. 5 and 6.
Contents.–American and European wars.–Neutrality and war.–The air defense of America.–Our drift toward war.–Our relationship with Europe.

Impregnable America. Scribner's commentator, v. 9, Jan. 1941: 3-6. AP2.S39
Address delivered at Yale University.

Our air defense. Vital speeches of the day, v. 7, Feb. 1, 1941: 241-242. PN6121.V32
Testimony given before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, January 23, 1941.

We are not prepared for war. Vital speeches of the day, v. 7, Feb. 15, 1941: 266-267. PN6121.V32
Testimony given before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, February 6, 1941.
Lindbergh's statement and interrogation by the Committee is included in U.S. Congress. Senate.

Committee on Foreign Relations. Hearings . . . on S. 275, a bill further to promote the defense of the United States and for other purposes. Washington, U.S. Govt. Print. Off., 1941, p. 490-560 (UA23.A4 1941)

A letter to Americans. Collier's, v. 107, Mar. 29, 1941: 14, 75-77. AP2.C65

We cannot win this war for England. Vital speeches of the day, v. 7, May 1, 1941: 424-426. PN6121.V32
Speech delivered before the America First Committee, New York, April 23, 1941.

Election promises should be kept. Vital speeches of the day, v. 7, June 1, 1941: 482-483. PN6121.V32
Speech delivered at Madison Square Garden, New York, May 23, 1941, under auspices of the America First Committee.

For the record, Scribner's commentator, v. 10, Aug. 1941: 7-13. AP2.S39
Presents Lindbergh's views on Germany, British Empire, foreign policy, intervention, defense, democracy, America, unity, and leadership.

My last address. Time, v. 38, Oct. 13, 1941: 15. Excerpts from address at Fort Wayne, Ind. AP2.T37

Time lies with us. Scribner's commentator, v. 11, Nov. 1941: 88-93. AP2.S39
Speech delivered at the Hollywood Bowl.

Of flight and life. New York, C. Scribner's Sons, 1948. viii, 56 p. TL540.L5A8
Presents some of Lindbergh's wartime experiences and thoughts.

A lesson from the Wright brothers. Aviation week, v. 51, Dec. 26, 1949: 42. TL501.A8
Published also with title "Human Qualities Must Keep Pace with Science" in National Aeronautics and Flight Plan, v. 29, Jan. 1950: 6 and with title "Man Cannot Thrive Independently in the Hot-House Atmosphere We Are Creating" in U.S. Air Services, v. 35, Jan. 1950: 11, 13.
Lindbergh's acceptance speech on receiving the 1949 Wright Brothers Memorial Trophy at Aero Club of Washington meeting in Washington, December 17, 1949, commemorating the 46th anniversary of the first flights of the Wright brothers.

Carrel, Alexis. The voyage to Lourdes; translated from the French by Virgilia Peterson. Preface by Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Harper & Brothers [1950] vii, 52 p. BT653.C353
London ed. (Hamilton) has title Journey to Lourdes.
Lindbergh assesses the character of Carrel as friend and collaborator in experimental research since 1930.

The Spirit of St. Louis. New York, Scribner, 1953. 562 p. illus. TL540.L5A85
A condensation was first published in installments in Saturday Evening Post, April 11-June 13, 1953 with title "Thirty-Three Hours to Paris;" excerpted in Reader's Digest, v. 63, Oct. 1953: 143-180. Reissued by Scribner 1975 (Hudson River ed.); paperback eds.: New York, Ballantine Books, Inc., 1971 and by Scribner 1973.
An autobiographical account, written over a span of 14 years, 1938-1952, which covers much the same ground as Lindbergh's "We" but with a different emphasis and style. The book was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for biography in May 1954.

Fourth dimension of survival. Saturday review, v. 37, Feb. 27, 1954: 11-12. Z1219.S25
Published also with title "Future Character of Man," in Vital Speeches of the Day, v. 20, Mar. 1, 1954: 293-295; abridged with title "But How About Man?" in Reader's Digest, v. 64, May 1954: 1-2.

Honors Night Dinner address. Aeronautical engineering review, v. 13, Mar. 1954: 48-51, 87. TL501.A326
Published also with title "I Have Stated a Problem; You Have a Right to Ask Me for a Solution" in U.S. Air Services, v. 39, Mar. 1954: 17-19 and abridged with title "Supersonic Air Power vs. the Character of Man" in Flight Magazine, v. 41, Apr. 1954: 13, 47-51, also with title "Man's New Environment" in Emme, Eugene M., ed. The Impact of Air Power (New York, D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc., 1959), p. 145-150.
Acceptance speech delivered by Lindbergh at the Honors Night Dinner of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences in New York, January 25, 1954, at which he was presented with the Daniel Guggenheim Medal in recognition of his pioneering achievements in flight and air navigation.

Our best chance to survive. Saturday evening post, v. 227, July 17, 1954: 25. AP2.S2

Discusses the need for bigger and better deterrents.

Thoughts of a combat pilot. Saturday evening post, v. 227, Oct. 2, 1954: 20-21, 78, 80. AP2.S2

Abridged with title "Church in the Gun-Sight," Reader's Digest, v. 65, Dec. 1954: 11-14.

Lindbergh served as a technical representative in World War II in the Pacific, flying some 50 missions, participated in a raid on Rabaul, and was credited with shooting down at least two Japanese aircraft.

Lehman, Milton. This high man; the life of Robert H. Goddard. With a preface by Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 1963. xv, 430 p. illus., ports. TL781.85 G614

Provides information on relationship of Lindbergh with the inventor.

Is civilization progress? Reader's digest, v. 85, July 1964: 67-74. AP2.R255

Lindbergh's views on wildlife preservation, a subject in which he had become interested following a trip to Africa in 1964.

Wisdom of wilderness. Life, v. 63, Dec. 22, 1967: 3-10. AP2.L547

Published also in Reader's Digest, v. 92, Apr. 1968: 83-87.

Lindbergh's thoughts on wildlife preservation.

Letter from Lindbergh. Life, v. 67, July 4, 1969: 60A-61. AP2.L547

In special issue of Life entitled "Off to the Moon" Lindbergh states that "I have turned my attention from technological progress to life, from the civilized to the wild."

Green, Constance M., and Milton Lomask. Vanguard; a history. Washington, National Aeronautics and Space Administration; (for sale by the National Technical Information Service, Springfield, Va.) 1970. 308 p. illus., ports. (The NASA historical series) (NASA SP 4202) TL796.5U6V35

Reprinted: Washington, Smithsonian Institution Press, 1971.

Includes foreword, dated August 11, 1969, by Lindbergh, pp. v-viii, in which he tells of his contacts with the United States satellite program.

The wartime journals of Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Harcourt Brace Jovanovich [1970] xx, 1038 p. illus., ports., col. maps (on lining papers) TL540.L5A3 1970

Excerpts published in American Scholar, v. 39, Aug. 1970: 577-613 and in American Heritage, v. 21, Oct. 1970: 32-37. German translation: Wien, Verlag Molden [1972].

A restatement and justification of his isolationist views of 1939-1941.

The way of wilderness. Reader's digest, v. 99, Nov. 1971; 90-93. AP2.R255

Lindbergh's observation following visits to the jungles of Kenya and Tanzania, that "a study of wilderness points the way for man of both physical survival and spiritual salvation."

"For me, aviation has value only to the extent that it contributes to the quality of life it serves." New York times, July 27, 1972, p. 31, cols. 3-4.

A discussion of supersonic transport, concluding that supersonic aircraft should not be permitted to fly over U.S. territory if their effect on the over-all environment is unsatisfactory.

Feel the earth. Reader's digest, v. 101, July 1972: 62-65. AP2.R255

Lindbergh's view, following a camping trip in a Swiss Alpine valley with his wife Anne, that "the great qualities of life are found in close contact with the earth."

Lessons from the primitive. Reader's digest, v. 101, Nov. 1972: 147-151. AP2.R255

Thoughts based on several visits to the Agta people in the Philippines.

Boyhood on the upper Mississippi; a reminiscent letter. St. Paul, Minnesota Historical Society, 1972. xiii, 50 p. illus. (Publications of the Minnesota Historical Society) TL540.L5A28

Lindbergh's memories of early days on the farm near Little Falls, Minnesota, as set forth in letters to Russel W. Fridley, Director, Minnesota Historical Society in 1969.

Some remarks at dedication of Lindbergh State Park Interpretive Center. Minnesota history, v. 43, Fall 1973: 275-276. F601.M72

Short speech given at the dedication of the Center near Little Falls, Minnesota on September 30, 1973.

Collins, Michael. Carrying the fire; an astronaut's journeys. With a foreword by Charles A. Lindbergh, New York, Farrar, Straus and Giroux [1974] xvii, 478 p. illus. TL789.85 C64A33

Nance, John. The gentle Tasaday; a Stone Age people in the Philippine rain forest. Foreword by Charles A. Lindbergh. New York, Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1975. xiv, 465 p. plates. DS666.T32N36

Lindbergh was a member of expeditions to the Tasaday tribe in March and May 1972. The introduction, which he finished in Hawaii five months before he died, was the last published work written by Lindbergh.

Autobiography of values.

To be published January 1978 by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich.

ISSN 0041-7904 Key title: Library of Congress information bulletin